30 years personal sales

For the last 30 years Haco Tail Lift Parts has been your tail lift specialist. Since 1986 we have been selling tail lift parts from our Apeldoorn location. In the early years before we had our own workshop, repairs to the tail lift parts were carried out at a different location. Following a fire, Haco Tail Lift Parts relocated to new industrial premises, that included a workshop, on Nagelpoelweg in Apeldoorn. In 2008, Haco Tail Lift Parts started its own product line and the HACO brand was launched.

Since then, Haco Tail Lift Parts has been a supplier and manufacturer of high quality tail lift parts.

In order to optimize the quality of the HACO parts, an in-house quality department, Haco Technology Centre (HTC) was established in 2010.

HACO cylinders are developed in-house by the HTC under the most stringent conditions.

At Haco Tail Lift Parts, emphasis is on a strict entry control of all components so that the quality of the product is monitored.

and advice on tail lift parts

The company was expanding the industrial premises became too limited and subsequently, in September 2012, Haco Tail Lift Parts moved to a new location on Laan van de Ram 11, in Apeldoorn with, in the meantime, 25 staff members. The brand HACO is now a fact and Haco Tail Lift Parts is market leader in the field of replacement parts for tail lifts in Europe with the expansion of both imports and exports.

Fresh boost

In 2015 David Hunink and Omer Ersam take over the management of the company, having spent their entire careers working at Haco. David is responsible for purchasing, product development and logistics while Omer is in charge of Sales and Marketing. Jointly, they contribute a fresh boost to the company and ensure renewal.

Established success

Today, the HACO team is composed of 28 staff who every day are hard at work generating fresh successes and continuing to be innovative. Innovative not only in the field of product development but, in particular, in the area of client service.

Knowledge and experience

Our domestic sales service is manned by technicians, all of whom have worked for many years in the field of tail lifts. Hans Moggre and Robert Nijkamp are ready to answer your technical questions. Both Hans and Robert have a wide experience in this field and are available to help solve your most complicated technical problems.

If you would like to have information on reserving stocks of our products, you are welcome to request a non-binding appointment with Ömer Ersan. Ömer can advise you and present a proposal.

Haco Tail Lift parts – Driven by Perfection

Haco Technology Centre:

HACO parts are 100% exchangeable with the original brands. Therefore, for Haco Tail Lift Parts, it is essential that the house brand HACO is top quality and durable. It begins with drawing up the product specifications and specifying the norms that the product must comply with. Samples are tested under the most stringent conditions and, where necessary, the specifications are adjusted.

Quality is tested and optimized in our Haco Technology Centre. The durability of HACO cylinders is checked on the test bench. The hydraulic system is tested by simulating the motion of the tail lift. Couplings and hoses are tested for leakage, plunger rods and seals for wear and tear.

Since the beginning of 2016, the HTC department has its own laboratory in which Haco products are tested extensively.

Quality is essential!

On all the wear parts of the tail lift, the surface roughness is a very important item. The smoother the surface the longer the life. There are fixed values for cylinders and piston rods. If these are too rough, the seals become worn and leakage occurs. Roughness is checked by means of the roughness tester.

HACO pins and torsion bars are made of carbonaceous metals. In order to increase the durability of these products, they are hardened by means of a surface treatment and/or heat treatment.

The required hardness of the material depends on the product. This means that each product has its own specifications.

Hardness measurement

Hardness can be checked by means of measurements. Depending on the hardness scale used, the measurements can be expressed in Vicker (HV) Brinell (HB) or Rockwell (Hrc).

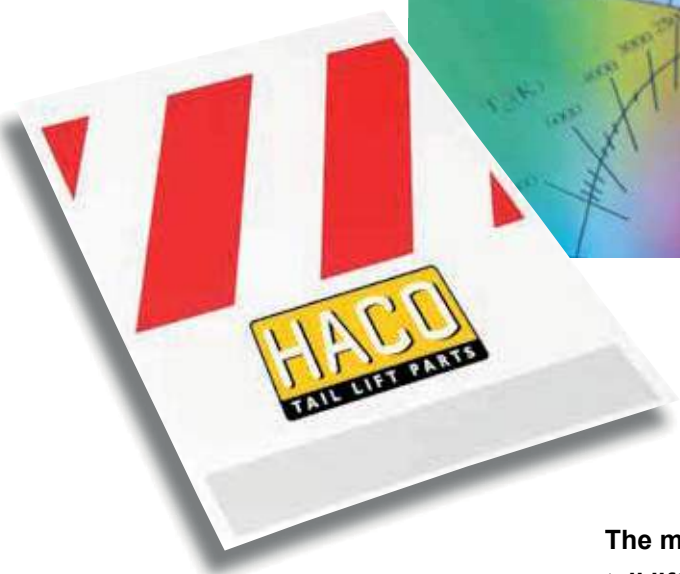

The correct hardness is determined by the ultimate application. This can differ per application since the requirements can refer to a smooth surface and/or wear resistance and/or toughness.

For example: the hardness of a torsion bar determines its elasticity. If it is hardened too much, the material will be brittle and the torsion bar will break.

Cleanness test

By rinsing a HACO pump clean (1) and filtering the liquid (2) under a microscope (3) the filter can be tested to check the number of particles remaining after production. Residue 'grit' can damage the pump!

HACO Tail lift warn

The most important reason for the good visibility of an open tail lift is to avoid traffic victims due to a collision with an open tail lift. Each year there are many victims, approximately 20 pedestrians and 30 other traffic participants (cyclists, motor cyclists). This is relatively low compared to accidents with tail lifts in private usage (own moving house or work-related).

If the tail lift extends beyond the normal contours of the vehicle, a warning system is obligatory.

One possibility is a reflecting warning flag. The requirements concerning warning flags differ from one country to another. In the Netherlands and France a reflective strip on the flag is obligatory.

Personalized tail lift warning flags

Haco Tail Lift Parts has developed personalized tail lift warning flags. These are flags with an obligatory reflecting strip and, moreover, it is possible to opt for the display of a logo or company design.

ing flags and tail lift lighting

In Germany tail lift flags must be red/white and fully reflecting. The format of these tail lift flags is length 400 mm, width 250 mm.

Approved for the German market

The flag is composed of different PVC layers with a reflecting background. This flag is produced according to the strict German standards (TUV) and has the original K1215 brand according to StVZO § 53b Abs. printed on each flag. This flag can be used throughout Europe with the exception of Switzerland and Great Britain. In Switzerland the obligatory tail lift flag is yellow with a black stripe. In Great Britain the tail lift flag is yellow/red with a reflecting stripe.

Tail lift lighting

With the exception of Germany it is not yet obligatory in Europe to install both the tail lift flag and platform lighting. If the tail lift is in a horizontal position, lighting on the tail lift flashes. In contrast to the tail lift flags, this is clearly visible on the side of the tail lift and in darkness.

In Germany, tail lift lighting must comply with the following specifications:

- It is obligatory to mount tail lift lighting on both sides of the tail lift.
- Tail lift lighting must flash during the raising and lowering of the tail lift.

Hydraulic hoses

HACO hydraulic hoses are made of thermo-plastic piping. The HACO hoses are MARINE quality and have an internal core of thermo-plastic polyester. They are reinforced with a double layer of woven polyester fibres.

The top layer of the HACO hose is finished with a layer of stabilized polyurethane which is resistant to UV rays and micro-organisms. The hoses can be used in a temperature range from 54°C to 100°C.

New! HACO Test weights

Tail lifts are often used intensively and consequently subject to wear.

A defect can result not only in delay; also the safety requirements can be endangered.

A tail lift must be checked at least once a year. This can be by means of the Periodical Inspection of Loading Ramps (Laadklep Periodieke Keuring/LPK certification) Thanks to this certification the safety of your tail lift is better safeguarded. For an expert LPK you can contact the companies registered with the LPK certification. The tail lift must comply with the requirements stated on the LPK check-list. After the inspection the tail lift is tested to its maximum.

The load and overload test is intended to establish whether the tail lift can lift the required weight and cannot accidentally descend and/or be overloaded.

Delivery time is faster and the HACO hose is an average of 25% cheaper than the original.

If you order before 15.30 the hose can be shipped the same day.

under own HACO label

Today thermoplastic hoses are widely used in hydraulics because:

- Thermoplastic hoses are extremely flexible
- Thermoplastic hoses are far more resistant to Ozone and UV rays.
- Thermoplastic hoses have a longer life.

Couplings with a Zinc Nickel finish

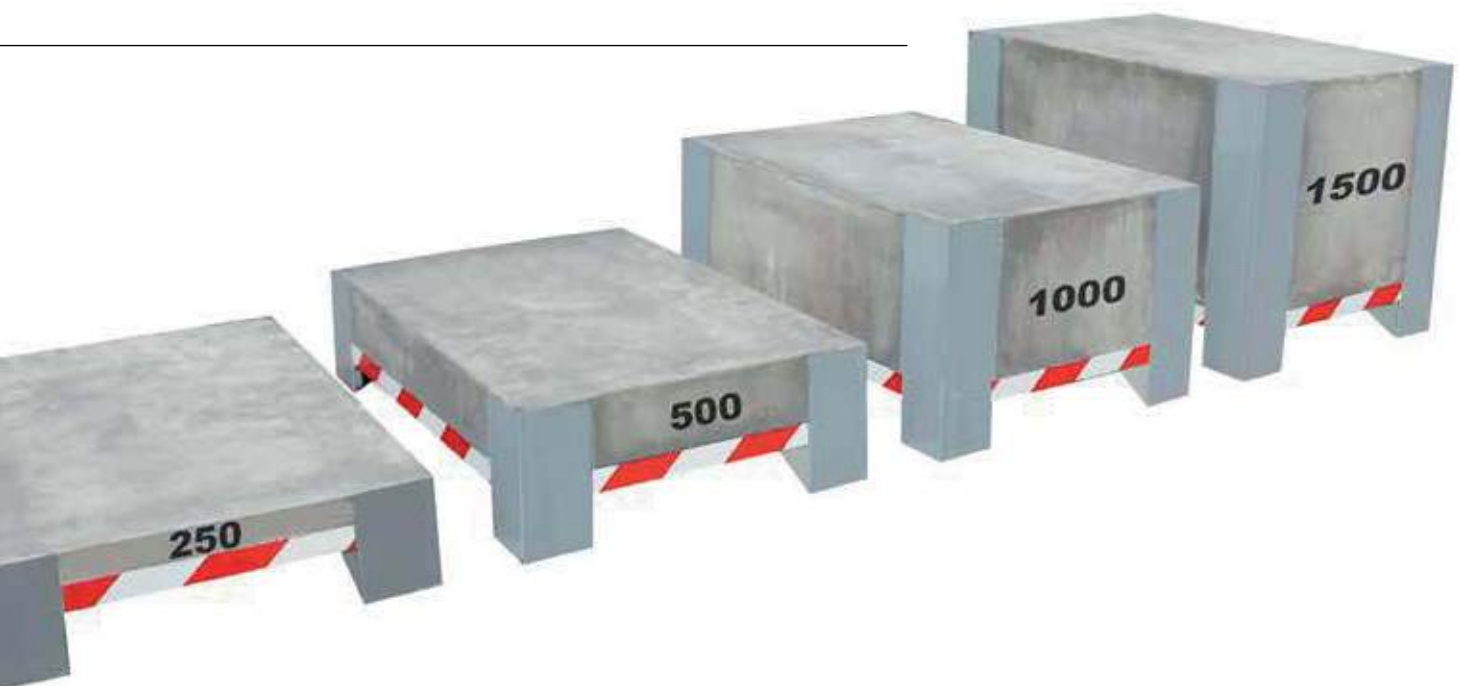

The couplings molded to the hoses have a special Zinc Nickel (ZnNi) finish. This finish protects the couplings against corrosion.

Quality is recognizable

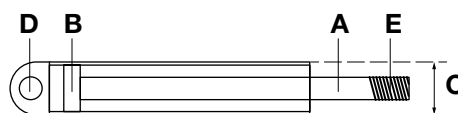

When the hose is manufactured it is provided with a label with a HACO article number, the date of the molding and the HACO logo. If you see the HACO logo you can be sure you are buying top quality.

Shorter delivery time

We stock most hydraulic hoses and hose sets that are currently in use. Since we manufacture hoses in house, we are able to produce a special hydraulic hose speedily. If you order before 15.30 the hose can be shipped the same day.
